

Chairman Powell should delay the rule change vote and allow time to have a democratic debate about consequences of further concentration of ownership. The public has not had sufficient input in the formation of the proposed policy.